

ARTS & IDEAS UP CLOSE

European Vacation
Exposes Students to Sights and
Dr. Dillon

For six weeks last summer, six Milligan students experienced Dr. Dillon's European Vacation, otherwise known as the Humanities Tour. Amy Bishop, Herly, Kirsten Koeniger, Alli Glore, Mike Poliskie, and Julia Rosenberry left the Baltimore airport four days after graduation to travel to Luxembourg. They were accompanied by Patty Shoup and Michelle Cassetty, both recent Milligan graduates, and Dr. Tim Dillon, their fearless leader.

While journeying in the big red van through Germany, Italy, Austria, Switzerland, France, England, Belgium, and the Netherlands, the group saw everything from the remains of the Berlin Wall to the musical Les Misérables. Leaky tents, long days, and a general lack of foreign language skills sometimes frustrated the campers, but the sights they saw made it all worth it.

There's nothing like knowing you've seen 80% of everything in Arts and Ideas! Experiencing so many different cultures in such a short time required the ability to adapt and work together, which the group did time and again.

Dr. Dillon also deserved recognition for putting up with the girls, who always wanted to shop, and with Mike, with whom he always had to share a tent since he was the only guy.

All told, the 1992 Humanities Tour was an invaluable experience, and a lot more fun than Humanities 202.

by Amy Bishop

Julia Rosenberry dances with a Trojan outside the tower of London.

A group of fantastic Humanities students in front of St. Marcos Church in Venice.

The tour group gathers around the table for delicious food in Amsterdam.

Mike Poliskie tries to converse with a statue in Paris, France.

Herly, Mike, Julia, and Michelle outside the Louvre in Paris.

The group outside the big red van on their last stop, Mamar, Luxembourg, before going home.

Enjoying a ride on a gondola in Venice, Italy, are Herly, Julia, Michelle, Amy, Kirsten, Mike, and Patty.