ALL FOR ONE

“If one member suffers, all suffer together; if one member is honored, all rejoice together.”

I CORINTHIANS 12:26

Getting started isn't easy. I found that out early this year when I was faced with the gargantuan task of producing the yearbook you are now reading. In the course of my editing experience, I learned two things. First, no single person has all the ideas. Second, when working with a large group of people you must have a common theme or purpose if you expect to get anywhere.

In the four years I have been at Milligan I have seen the school from many angles. I have always taken pride in being a student here because in spite of flaws, Milligan remains a college with a purpose. That purpose, which should be the purpose behind all things, is to change the world by spreading God's word in every area of life — church, family, and career.

Milligan alone may not be able to bring the world to Christ, but it's a good start.

DIVERSITY

“Now there are varieties of gifts, but the same spirit; and there are varieties of service, but the same Lord; and there are varieties of working, but it is the same God who inspires them all in every one.”

I CORINTHIANS 12:4-6

With students representing all corners of the nation as well as several foreign countries, Milligan College has become a veritable melting pot of cultures, ideas, and talents. Each member of the community has his or her own unique set of gifts and goals which make it impossible for anyone to stereotype a Milligan student.

This year, Milligan saw more diversity than usual as one of the largest-ever freshman classes walked on campus in the fall. It wasn't long before these new students filled the dorms and enriched the campus atmosphere with their individual talents.

SERVICE

“Having gifts that differ according to the grace given to us, let us use them . . .”

ROMANS 12:6

Talents are of no value unless they are put to use. Members of the Milligan community have many opportunities to put their gifts to work, and both the college and the individual benefit from this service.

Many students are artistically inclined. Some have learned certain trades or services. Others just do a lot of hard labor. Whatever the ability, everyone has the chance to take it and use it somehow, somewhere on campus.

UNITY

“For where two or three are gathered in my name, there am I in the midst of them.”

MATTHEW 18:10

There are not many places where hundreds of people can successfully live and function together. That is why Milligan is unique, for it is here that people from all over can find that all-important common purpose for which they can work.

We come to Milligan to learn and to prepare ourselves for our lives and our careers after graduation. But we also come here to share in the universal fellowship that is found only in Jesus Christ. At Milligan we are united not only with ourselves, but with brothers and sisters in the surrounding area and the world.

NEW CHANGES

Numerous Freshmen Invade the Campus.

Organized pandemonium . . . On Saturday, August 27, 292 new students arrived on campus to become a part of the Milligan tradition. As always, they came from all parts of the country and the world. The new adventure began again. Unloading belongings, setting up rooms, and meeting new roommates were the first tasks of the new students. The fun started that night when all 292 students met in Hyder Auditorium (which only seats 270!). They met their team leaders, made new friends, and listened to words of wisdom from "the experienced ones". All of the new students were given a dink to be worn with pride during the week. Unfortunately, most managed to lose it within minutes. (They always seem to fall for the star-in-the-dink-win-a-jacket- trick!) Those that were dinkless fell prey to the horrors of Kangaroo Court. Despite these adventures, changes, testing, advising, registration, and adjustments, the new students fared well. The first week is always a bit difficult, but with prayer and perseverance, the new students made it through.

Spiritual Life

There were many opportunities for spiritual growth on campus.

Opportunities for spiritual growth were vast and varied on and around the Milligan campus. Weekly convocations brought the student body together. First semester, every Tuesday morning we came in contact with the minor prophets. Vespers on Sunday nights offered a more relaxed atmosphere. We enjoyed many song services, special music presentations, and messages. These messages ranged from mini-sermons to laid-back talks, such as Robbie King's "Don't Worry; Be happy". ICU and discipleship groups were when students could study God's word, pray, discuss, and fellowship with a small group of people. Many students found opportunities off campus too. ETSU's campus house was a popular place to go once a week to get revitalized. Churches in the area provided a good way to get involved in and grow. Grandview and Southside were popular churches in the area where Milligan students attended. The opportunities were endless for spiritual growth on campus.

FADS &

Fashions

A Casual Look Was Popular.

On campus this year, the look was casual. It was a look that went from washer to dryer to class with no ironing or fuss. One of the most popular fashions was sweats. They were always worn regardless of events of weather. Many girls turned the tops inside out and rolled the sleeves up. Sweaters were also popular among the student body. Any style was "in". Solids, patterns, and pictures could all be seen on sweaters. No matter what they looked like, they were a great way to be both fashionable and warm. Jeans are always in fashion, and this year was no exception. Gone were the days of patches; this year holes were "in". Jean jackets were also often seen complementing an outfit. Bandanas and scarves were popular this year. Guys wore a bandana around their leg, while girls wore a scarf around their waist or shoulder to dress up an outfit. Yet, regardless of the fads and fashions, it was "anything goes" for Milligan fashion.

MEMORIES

Graduates Return To Their Alma Mater

Alumni Weekend was a time of returning and reminiscing. Many alumni came back to Milligan to see old friends and participate in the weekend activities. To start it off, during the Milligan volleyball tournament, the 1988-89 Founder's Daughter was announced. Tracey Booth, who was sponsored by Hart Hall, was voted by the student body as the most outstanding senior girl who represents the spirit of Milligan College. Kelly Rexroat, who was sponsored by the SGA, was runner up. Also this weekend, The Milligan Theatre department presented the play (Our Town), directed by Mr. Major. This production consisted of many people from the Milligan community and was viewed by students, alumni, and other guests alike. Saturday morning was the annual 5K Run sponsored by the Alumni Association. Although mostly alumni ran in the race, many students helped with the course. During the day was the alumni baseball game, where the alumni took on the fall baseball team. This was a fun weekend for all who were involved. Memories were not only remembered, but also were made.

Students Invade Johnson City

How do we have fun? Let's count the ways. Fun is a word not foreign to Milligan students. Almost every night there was someone going out to dance, to grab a bite to eat, or to see a movie. Dancing is one of the most popular things to do off campus. Students chose from a wide variety of places to dance the night away. Among the favorites were TC's, Richard A's, and Ziggy's. Eating out was also very popular. Students mixed eating and studying at Perkins. Little Ceasar's served up great bread sticks for a midnight snack. The 2 for 1 special at Cheers was a student favorite. PR's was a good place for an anytime snack. Movies were always a great place to go with a favorite someone or with the gang. AMC showed 8 movies and gave students a discount. Reel to Reel was another movie theater where Milligan students could be found. Outdoor activities gave many students a chance to get away from campus and enjoy nature. Roan Mt., Sycamore Shoals, various caves and other beauty spots offered fun and beauty to students. Last, but not least, is Kroger and Wal-Mart. Kroger kept food on our shelves when dinner was bad. Wal-Mart was a great place to shop as well as hang out (for those with no money, but still want to enjoy a good movie in the electronics dept.) Yeah, for the Wal-Mart shopper!

Students Perform Madrigals

HEAR YE, HEAR YE, subjects of this realm. You shall be witnesses to the Toast to the Christmas Season:

Prepare to revel the Saviour's birth

With feasting and frolic, music and mirth.

Lords, ladies, and subjects — Her Royal Highness, Elizabeth, Queen of England commanded that Sutton Hall be fitted for an evening of feasting, singing, and dancing for the general merriment of all. Annually invited guests from the reaches of the land came to enjoy several days of festivities. Sweetmeats aplenty, brown breads of bran, a tankards of hearty wassail were eagerly devoured by all — in accordance with the Queen's rules of etiquette. After feasting on such pleasing delicacies, the guests amused themselves with singing of beautiful madrigals. The Lord of Misrule enchanted and delighted subjects with mystifying tricks and humorous antics. Her Royal Highness not only graced Milligan with her presence, but also upon invitation of the Vanderbilt's, Queen Elizabeth, the Royal Court, and court musicians visited the Biltmore Estate in Ashville, North Carolina. The spirit of the holidays was abundant for the sights and sounds of the nights filled all with the joy and peace of the Christmas season.

A Variety of Music Reigned

Music is a major part of college students' lives, and Milligan students were no exception. Each student chose their own music from a wide array of categories and styles. On any given day you could walk through the halls of the dorm and hear anything from Mozart to Guns-and Roses. Many students listened to contemporary Christian music rather than pop music. Many went to hear Rich Mullins and Glad on campus, and even a group of about 50 people caravanned to the Amy Grant concert in Knoxville. Some students were inclined to listen to heavy metal music. Therefore, bands like Def Leppard, Stryper, Poison, and Bon Jovi became popular. Other students enjoyed progressive music which included such groups as U2, The Cure, REM, and The Violent Femmes. Black pop and rap were also in the spotlight with groups like New Edition, Bobby Brown and Al B. Sure. There were also classical buffs as well as throwbacks from the sixties. Yet, whatever your taste in music, whether it be Phil Collins, Aerosmith, Sandi Patti, or the Smiths it could be found somewhere on Milligan campus.

In A Webb

Improvements Change Webb Hall

Webb Hall remained active this year with festivities for everyone. The tradition of the weekend movies carried over from last year, as an active dorm council sought to keep things upbeat for those starving for entertainment. Bruce Greco was the new man on the block, taking over as assistant head resident under the direction of head resident Coach Walker. With the assistance of the R.A.'s, basketball tournaments and softball tournaments were held, as well as the traditional pizza party, the cigar party and perhaps a little initiation of engaged members of the esteemed dorm. A new addition was the morning prayer circle which took place three days a week and grew throughout the year. A facelift in the lobby, featuring a paint job, new carpet, and yes Mom and Dad, NEW FURNITURE, lightened up the dorm and made "Big Monday" on ESPN more comfortable. It takes alot of effort from everyone to enable 170 guys from different backgrounds to get along without the roof caving in, but more importantly it took Jesus Christ.

A Year of Hope and Change

Good times, bad times, happy and sad . . . Every year is filled with such moments. This past year included many memorable events that made us smile, cry, and change our outlook on life. In the summer months, we sat idly by as George Bush, Michael Dukakis, Jessie Jackson and others fought for presidential nominations at their party conventions. We all wondered what the future would hold as Bush and Dukakis accepted their nominations. Shortly after we returned to school, we gathered around the TV's to watch the Olympics in Seoul, Korea. We cheered with pride as Flo-Jo, Jackie Joyner-Kearsee, Matt Biandi, Janet Evans, Greg Louganis and more brought home the gold. In September we anxiously watched as the Space Shuttle Discovery was successfully launched and put the USA back in space. Later our hearts were touched as 3 California gray whales were trapped under the frozen ice. Yet, many groups lended their services to help the whales. On Tuesday, November 8, we went to the polls and awaited the results. We witnessed as George Bush and Dan Quayle were elected to serve the nation. As we studied for finals in December, news of the devastating earthquake in Armenia disturbed us. Thousands were killed and many others were hurt. Days later, a plane flying from Europe to New York crashed. The fated Pan-Am flight exploded over Lockerbie, Scotland. 1989 started off well. We watched as President Bush took office, and we said goodbye to President Reagan after 8 years. This year held many moments of grief, excitement and change. We saw renewal, tragedy, and hope, but most of all, we saw ourselves.

HART ATTACK

No Place Like Our Place

At the highest point on campus stands the girls dorm which houses most of the girls who live on campus. This year Hart Hall housed close to 200 girls. The girls in Hart came from all over the country and learned to live, to study, and to have fun with new friends and old. The new dorm parents, Tom and JoAnn VanMeter provided a loving and spiritual atmosphere in which the girls could live and learn. The opening of Hart laundromat also provided an opportunity to fellowship. Open houses, dorm devotions, and wellness programs encouraged girls to grow socially, spiritually, and emotionally. Girls on the first floor even took on a puzzle project to decorate the walls. All floors participated in secret pal programs. And again this year the Hart football team, the Hartbreakers, went away undefeated. The year went by quickly, but all the girls know they will always have a home where the Hart is.

Milligan Get A Face Lift

New Improvements On Campus

Yes, Milligan is now "new and improved." Among the things newly constructed this year is the communications building. It opened for classes second semester. It is amazing to see the brand new recording and television equipment. Everyone is excited about the new programs getting underway.

Derthick Hall is another part of Milligan which is improved. Over the summer it was recarpeted and repainted in mauve and grey. Two new televisions were on campus this year. After Hart Hall's TV mysteriously disappeared, they obtained a new one. The snack bar in the SUB also received a new large screen TV.

Last, but not least, Milligan received new washing machines and dryers. These machines were placed in Webb and Hart, but were available for the whole campus to use. This made doing laundry more convenient.

Although improvements are happening all the time, they are sometimes unnoticeable, but this year Milligan definitely received a "Face Lift!"

King Of THE HILL

Food For Thought

Friends For Life

Anyone who has been around Milligan for any length of time knows that Sutton Hall is the dorm at the top of the hill where the cafeteria is. It is also the dorm with no first floor. During the 1988-89 school year, Sutton held devotions, open houses, and parties or "wellness programs". Two important new things did happen to Sutton this year. First, maintenance put immovable screens in all the windows. Second, Sutton won its first fall powderpuff football game. The screens issue was bad news. Not only did they put an effective halt to all rooftop sunbathing, but they also restricted our participation in various campus activities such as Pardee initiation and Webb's cigar party. As far as football ... well anyone who watched the game knew that Sutton won in spite of the "official" score. To those who still think the jury is out on the final verdict, I have one thing to say: "Center offside?" In a PIG'S EYE! Sutton Hall, it's the best.

LOVE

IS IN THE AIR

Valentine's Week Was A Great Success

The annual Valentine's week at Milligan emerged with hearts in bloom and love in the air. The sweetheart convo this year showed the creativity of those who were nominated. From Chuck Downs appearing as Coach Wallingford and Jeff Moorehouse as Elmer Fudd to Shelley Allen in a toga and Dave Frederick and Michele Miller in bed, the candidates kept the student body laughing. Mr. Price and Dr. Street were also quite humorous as emcees of the show. On Saturday night, the Social Affairs Committee sponsored the annual Sweetheart Banquet in the cafeteria. It was elaborately decorated for this special occasion. Everyone was "dressed to kill" and ready for a good evening. After a very nice meal, Mr. Price read the winners of the class sweethearts. The banquet was topped off by a concert by Michael Baldwin. All in all, the evening was a great success and one to be remembered for many years.

ROWDIE

Spirit Lives On

Pardee Residents Continue Tradition

Majestically she stands in the center of campus with her tall, white columns rising to the west. This is not just an ordinary building on campus. Behind her well worn brick exterior lies the home of the infamous Pardee Rowdies. Although she may be old, structurally speaking, she is alive and well through the actions of her residents. This year over fifty men had the distinct privilege of living in this landmark structure. Pardee Hall has always been considered a dorm of distinction among the Milligan College community. This year was no exception. The residents exquisitely performed several projects including the Freshman waterslide, late night court sessions, and serenading our President, Marshall Leggett, during a dynamic display of Pardee dorm spirit at initiation. No other residents on campus display such devotion toward their dorm as a Rowdie does to Pardee Hall. A Rowdie carries with him many traditions left behind by older Rowdies. Although years may separate the residents, the building itself destroys all these barriers. The only disappointing aspect of life in Pardee is the fact that she will not stand forever. But whatever her fate, her residents are not dampened in spirits, as the memories surrounding this building will be forever cherished by those who have experienced her grandeur. The Rowdie spirit will live on forever!

All The World's A Stage!

Theatre Dept. Performs for Many

The Milligan Theatre Department this year provided much excitement and entertainment. The Theatre for Young Audiences, under the direction of Mr. Richard Major, toured over 20 schools with their productions of A TOBY SHOW and I DIDN'T KNOW THAT! Over 10,000 students in Northeast Tennessee had an opportunity to see these imaginative and energetic productions. The fall production this year was very special indeed. In commemoration of celebrating it's 50th anniversary as a student organization on campus, the area of Theatre Arts also took the occasion to celebrate another American classic's 50th birthday, by doing a very special production of OUR TOWN that featured the talents of Milligan students, faculty, staff, and Alumni. The spring production, ON THE VERGE or The Geography of Yearning by Eric Overmyer, featured the talents of Sarah Hasty, Karin Gurley, Christina Schafer, and Jeremy Van Meter. This frolicsome jaunt through time, history, geography, feminism, and fashion was a critical as well as popular success. The 3rd Annual Festival of One-Act Plays moved inside this year due to inclement weather. But the weather did not dampen the enthusiasm of the seven student directors and their casts. Nor did it seem to affect the overwhelming student attendance each evening. The plays incorporated the talents of over 50 actors, directors, and technicians. This was a tremendous year for the Milligan Theatre department which will be remembered forever.

Hardin Hall is the smallest dorm on campus, but it houses many girls who are important on campus. It is a dorm for only upperclass girls. The residents there have created their own "sorority-like" home. Only about 35 girls live in Hardin and many others desire to live there. The girls held a Bahamas night first semester for open house. They also had their own "Hardin Prom" of sorts. The girls who live there are very close. As seniors graduate, more will move into Hardin and take their place among the elite. Hardin Hall is definitely a classic!

Students Travel for Spring Break '89

Spring Break is always a welcome vacation for Milligan students. After classes, long hours of studying, and mid-terms, Spring Break '89 offered students a variety of ways to unwind. Many people travelled to Florida to go to Disney World and Epcot, as well as bask on the beaches. Even the concert choir toured Florida this year, as well as the Baseball team. Others journeyed to Washington DC and Philadelphia while others travelled to Las Vegas and Colorado. Some students chose to spend Spring Break at home. "It was nice to go home, visit with my family, and relax," said Robin O'Neal. But no matter whether you were soaking up the rays in the Florida Keys or skiing in Colorado, Spring Break '89 was a welcome vacation for all!

FUN for all

Terrific Tuesday Created Excitement

On the morning of April 18, the members of the Milligan Community were greeted by a welcome surprise — Terrific Tuesday had arrived! No classes! No convo! Fun-for-all! The festivities began with brunch at 10:30. The cafeteria served hot dogs, hamburgers, tacos, and the like. There was a jukebox on hand as well as a pie-eating contest and plenty of Coca-Cola paraphernalia. After brunch, non-competitive volleyball games began at Hardin as well as beach volleyball at Hart and frisbee golf starting at Sutton. After about 30 minutes, the Coca-Cola WQUT Boom Box arrived and provided music for all. At 1:00 the faculty-student softball game was in full swing as well as the infamous Pardee waterslide. By 2:00 there was soccer at Anglin. The obstacle course by the tennis courts was also ready. Soon people were slipping, and sliding, as well as throwing pies into William Lohr's face. Can you blame them? The Hardin Lawn relays began at 3:00. The wheel-barrow wasn't bad, but the egg toss was a mess. Congratulations to Ricky Bale and Brian Morrison who stuck it out to the end. After the relays, the annual tug-of-war between the dorms took place over Buffalo creek. There were also helicopter rides available at Anglin. At 4:45 dinner was served on Derthick lawn. "Umbilical Noose" was there to provide a little dinner music. After dinner, game shows were available to participate in all over campus. The Dating Game, the Nearlywed Game, and Hartwood Squares gave people some after dinner fun. If that wasn't enough, Stateline Drive-in in Elizabethton was showing "The Naked Gun." After the day was over, most people were pleased with the way it went. Chris Capps said, "It really unified the campus. It brought us together." Special thanks to Dave Frederick, Michele Miller and the Social Affairs committee for making Terrific Tuesday '89 truly terrific.

An Elegant Affair

Jr. Sr. Banquet Was Held At The Sheraton

On April 28, Milligan upperclassmen gathered together for an evening of fun and entertainment. The students in formal attire headed to the Sheraton for the annual Junior-Senior Banquet. Everyone was ready for a night of glittering gowns and a candlelight dinner. After the buffet dinner, a slide show was presented of 1989's unforgettable moments. Then, thanks to Mr. Price's humor, the seniors were given insight into the future and changes which would happen in their lifetime. Then, the superlatives were announced. Sarah Beth Simmons closed the program by singing the theme song "Wind Beneath My Wings." When the banquet ended, students pushed aside the tables and chairs, kicked off their shoes, and . . . YES, ladies and gentlemen, "rhythmically moved" the night away!

Filling the gaps . . .

After losing eight key players from the very successful 1988 Spring season, the Milligan baseball team used the fall season to try to fill in some holes. The Buffs' fall record was 19-4 and many of the holes were filled in ably by returning players and freshmen.

Five positions in the starting lineup were left vacated by players graduating or moving on to professional ball. Among the losses in the starting lineup were three players who accounted for thirty of Milligan's fifty-two home runs last spring. Helping to compensate for the lost offensive fire power in the fall were junior Keith Church and sophomores David McDaniel and Ricky Bale. Church haunted opposing pitchers with sizzling line drives while McDaniel and Bale showed power hitting three and two home runs respectively. All three hit for averages of .350 or better.

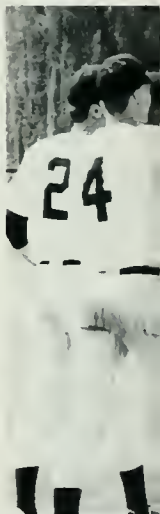

The Buffalo pitching staff suffered big losses also. Only three pitchers who saw extensive mound duty returned for the fall season. A. R. Rhea and Jayson Best pitched the most innings while five other pitchers chipped in their fair share of work.

Playing competitively against a tough fall schedule left the Buffaloes with a feeling of optimism for the spring season to follow.

The spring baseball team had a lot to live up to after a successful fall season, but the season did turn out better than expected. The Buffs won the National Christian College Athletic Association District 4 championship which qualified them for the national tournament.

Keith Church and Rex Garrison led the Milligan offense, both hitting over .400. John Hollowell also helped at the plate by hitting about .350 with four home runs. Church led the team in homers with six out of the park.

A. R. Rhea and Jayson Best carried much of the pitching load. Rhea fashioned a record of 6-1 while Best's was 5-3 before they were both injured. Milt Flow, John Gable, and Greg Nuckols helped carry the load later in the season.

Some of the highlights of the '89 season were victories over NCAA Division I opponents East Tennessee State and Appalachian State, and an extra-inning loss to Tennessee.

SOCCER

... Looking Ahead.

The 1988-89 soccer season proved difficult for Milligan's two-year-old team. The Buffs had expected to receive several new recruits for the fall season, and had taken that into account by scheduling matches with some tough teams. Unfortunately not all of the recruits arrived, leaving Milligan to face some stiff competition.

Although they finished the season with a record of 3-12, the Buffs chalked up several accomplishments. These included playing tough in a 3-1 loss to the University of North Carolina at Asheville. Led by coach Charles Carter and team captains Marty Shirley and Eric Unold, Milligan did not give up. The team was also plagued with multiple injuries to starting players.

Even after a disappointing season, the Buffs looked forward to a more exciting season in the fall of '89. Throughout the school year they stayed in shape by playing in several indoor tournaments in the Tennessee/North Carolina area, and when recruiting efforts began in the spring the Buffs looked ahead to a stronger showing in the future.

As usual, Milligan had an excellent year on the volleyball court. Although the team was dominated by newcomers, Lady Buffs obviously got it together at the net as they fought their way to a 33-13 record.

Led by returning players Barb Wood, Marti Smith, Debi Kardosh, and Suzanne Taylor, the squad combined experience with incoming talent to capture the NCCAA District title. Although much of the team had not worked together before this year, they look forward to several more years of play as a unit. This year there are no seniors on the squad.

Fantastic Turnaround

Second year head coach Tony Wallingford brought about a dramatic turnaround this past season for Buff basketball. Returning players and transfers together propelled Milligan back to a respectable standing after last year's 2-28 season.

The mainstay of the Buffs' attack was junior transfer Dino Allen who led the offense with 19 points per game, and electrified the crowd with multiple slam dunks. Sophomore Tom Musick was the outstanding jumpshooter, averaging 18 points per game. Transfer Robert Higgins was a major contributor in scoring and rebounding. Senior co-captain Craig Latscha was the team's leading rebounder with 10 per game.

Bench strength was an integral part of the team's attack. Ron Barkley played aggressive basketball all year. Kelvin Hopson and Roger Stokely played well inside. The point guard position was shared by Eric Williams, Mark Jones, and Brad Meford. Jeff Moorehouse was called on for his defense and hustle.

The Buffs ended the season with a 21-11 record and many accomplishments. With only one player graduating and many returning, the Buffs are looking forward to a promising future.

Swishful Thinking

It was a young and inexperienced team that pounded the basketball court for Milligan this year. With only one veteran player — senior Becky Wagner — the Lady Buffs had a season of learning how to play as a team the hard way.

Although their record was not as good as they would have liked, the squad should be commended for the tremendous amount of hard work they put in to practice and games. And with only one player graduating this year, the Buffs look forward to a few more years of working together as a unit, gaining experience individually and as a team.

We've only just begun . . .

While the women's softball team did not take home the district crown this year, they certainly didn't finish in the cellar. In only their second year of fast-pitch competition, the young Lady Buffs showed promise from their squad dominated by seven freshmen and four sophomores. The presence of seniors Becky Wagner and Susan Bryant was appreciated throughout the season, but the team remained optimistic after graduation with all the remaining young talent in the lineup.

SCOREBOARD

The Milligan women's tennis team had a very successful and improved 1989 Spring season. The team's record was 7-2, which earned them a second place finish in the NAIA district. Next season also looks promising because six of the seven players will be returning. Janet Richmond, the only senior on the team, provided much leadership and support throughout the year.

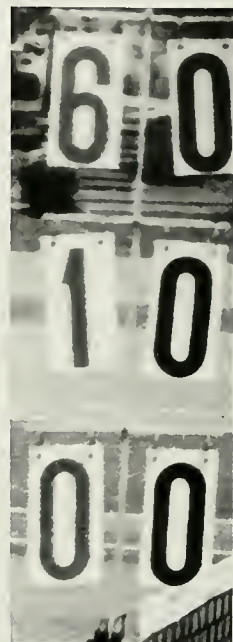

Dr. Jack Knowles, a first year coach, motivated the team a great deal with his enthusiasm and dedication. Although he had had no previous experience as a tennis coach, he did an excellent job.

Four returning players this year were Alice Helsabeck, Janet Richmond, Suzi Greaser, and Debbie Smith. Three new players included Diana Smith, Jennifer Tasto, and Brandi Ireland.

Spirits were high throughout the 1989 season, and the team ended the year with high expectations for the future.

Men's Tennis

the Magnificent Seven

After a short fall season, the Milligan Men's tennis team was hopeful for a bright and successful spring. However, the loss of four of the top six varsity returnees forced a lot of young talent into starting roles. The men handled the pressure extremely well whether starting for the first time or moving up to higher seeded positions.

The season was not quite .500, but no one from the 1989 squad graduated this year. The 1989 team consisted of three juniors, two sophomores, and two freshmen.

The shining moment of the spring season was a 5-4 defeat of archrival King College, the first such victory in almost ten years. The best attribute of the team was its solidness. Many shifts had to be made in the lineup due to the near equality of the players, from the number one position all the way to number seven!

After a season of working together, the young squad looked ahead along with Coach Duard Walker to brighter seasons in the future.

Brain Waves

Contrary to popular belief Milligan students do occasionally study. For some, that may be one week before an exam; for others it may be twenty minutes before the class. The ongoing problem faced by many students is — “Where do I study?” The library seems to be the logical place, but for those not strong enough, the temptation of socializing becomes too great. Some Milligan students choose to study outside when the weather becomes warm but beware, those temptations found in the library are also found in the great outdoors. The search is on the ideal study place (the science building, the library, or the dorm); will Milligan students ever find it? Tune in next year to find out!

Biblical Learning

Milligan College is very proud of its Area of Biblical Learning. This program is designed to equip people for both practical ministry and graduate study. Students study the Old and New Testaments in depth. They are encouraged to discuss philosophy and theology with each other and the faculty. Most majors require the studying of Greek or Hebrew and instruction in ministry. Majors in Bible, Youth Ministry, and Christian Education are growing rapidly.

Scientific Learning

The Area of Scientific Learning offers strong academic majors in Biology, Chemistry, and Mathematics. The Area also provides coursework that is essential for cooperative programs in nursing, medical technology, and pre-engineering. A basic function of the Area is the provision of science and mathematics courses necessary to support the College's core curriculum. Active participatory learning is the aim of the Area of Scientific Learning. Mathematics is taught with emphasis on practical applications, and science courses have a built-in laboratory component.

Humane Learning

Central to the liberal arts curriculum at Milligan College is the Area of Human Learning. Students are introduced to this program during their first two years in Humanities. The Area also includes the study of arts, communications, theatre arts, English, foreign languages, music, and philosophy. Those students who major or minor in one of these fields are prepared for many career opportunities. All graduates of Milligan College learn about the achievements and failures of Western Culture. They are then able to intelligently face the critical issues of tomorrow.

THE ARTS

Milligan got a touch of culture once again this year, compliments of the Arts Council. Highlights of the year included a concert by Wynton Marsalis, a workshop by the Chuck Davis African-American Dance Ensemble, and the first Milligan Invitational sculpture exhibit.

CULTURE

BUFFALOES TOUR EUROPE

The Humanities tour has become an annual tradition at Milligan College. Every year two groups of students and brave faculty members camp through 13 European countries. In these countries the group visits magnificent cathedrals, castles, abbeys, and art museums which most of us only read about in text books. They experience the unique tastes of European food and shuffle their way through crowded marketplaces. They encounter everything from the dark walls of a German concentration camp to the reverent Madonna in St. Peter's Basilica.

The 1988 Humanities tour, though, got the privilege of seeing what no other tour has seen: the inside of two Italian police stations. While visiting the fascinating ruins of Pompeii, the group's red Ford van was stolen. With it went all food, clothes, and camping gear. Everything was gone, but the dreams of the tour were still strong. After three days of filling out police reports, American Express reports, and stolen passport reports, the group got on a train and headed for Rome. In Rome, three members decided to return to the States while the rest finished the tour carrying everything they owned on their backs.

I was very proud to be a part of the 1988 Humanities Tour led by David Knoecklein. It was more than a tour of old buildings and pretty paintings, but an adventure in European culture. We experienced things no other group has before. We stayed in an apartment on a side street of Rome, bought our clothes and necessary supplies at an outside market, and at least two meals a day consisted of bread and cheese. We only had one change of clothes, and we shared a toothbrush. The '88 tour experienced European living as a tourist, but more as a participant. We will all look back to the summer of 1988 as a time of happiness, a time of dependence on God, and most of all, a time of love toward one another.

For some, it was an emotional occasion, and for others it was just another ceremony. But for everyone, somehow, graduation was the end. The end of classes and tests and campus life. The end of four years of suspension between childhood games and adult reality.

And with the end there were a lot of goodbyes . . .

Students packed books and clothes and posters as they left their dorm rooms for the last time.

Graduating buddies posed for photos in the spirit of "St. Elmo's Fire".

Friends embraced, not sure when or if they would see each other again.

And when it was all over, with tassels switched and diplomas in hand, they all left in a flurry of kisses and hugs and tears and promises to "keep in touch."

And that was it.

Short four years, wasn't it?

The class of 1989 is now off excelling in various and sundry vocations, opening new doors and new chapters every day.

But as for the chapter of life entitled "Milligan College", they have reached the end.

Would the REAL graduating seniors please step forward . . .

PEOPLE

Charles, Trey, and Rob believe sincerely in the benefits of mud masks for the skin.

Our kind and courteous personnel, such as Dyke McCord, are always ready to serve you.

Jeff Johnson zooms in on a subject with new camera equipment, courtesy of the Communications Department.

Modeling the latest in college fashions, Jen Cuthbert and Allison Brady hang out in Derthick Hall between classes.

SENIORS

Gosh, we've finally made it! Doesn't it seem like the time has gone so quickly? When we came here four years ago, no one ever suspected that shy and reserved Shane Clanton would become the President of SGA ... or that the communications program would become a reality ... or that Dr. Bonner's prediction would come true, "LOOK TO YOUR LEFT AND YOUR RIGHT. ONLY ONE OF YOU WILL BE HERE TO GRADUATE," but it did.

We were told that we were the smartest class to ever enter Milligan. We had the highest ACT scores and everyone was so proud of us. But then we discovered that they say that to EVERY entering freshman class. We were also the last fortunate class to be academically deaned (I made that one up) by Dr. Oosting. My, how memories fade with time and force.

Then this year we were spiritually renewed by a Franciscan priest named Brennan Manning. He reminded us of a very simple but often forgotten fact, that God loves us no matter what, in grace and disgrace. So as freshmen with high ideals to seniors with a cynical outlook on life, we have grown up. We realize that life is full of disappointments, but God still loves us the same. That remains the one constant thing in our ever-changing world. Our source of strength, courage, and ambition is our Almighty Savior.

Thanks guys for an exciting, fun, and definitely educational four years. Congratulations and best wishes!

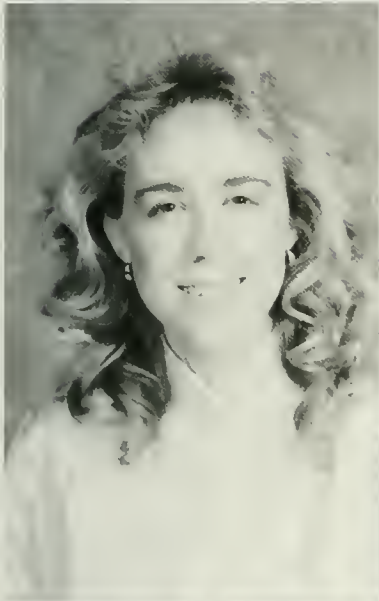

Praise be to Him,

JUNIORS

It's a little off the top for junior class officers Robin Cuthbert, Brian Wells, Wes McElravy, Shelley Allen, and Dave Powers.

When we are freshmen, they tell us that our four years at Milligan will be the best years of our lives, and they will prepare for the future with a great education.

I prescribe to part of this ideology.

I agree that my three years so far at Milligan have been some of my best yet, but I feel Milligan prepares us for the future with something far greater than a good education: everlasting friendships.

SOPHOMORES

Coming to Milligan as a sophomore had its advantages. We knew which parking spaces were legal. We knew how to get the cereal out of the dispensers in the cafeteria. And we no longer had to wonder who Tim Dillon was. There were fewer surprises and more expectations.

Candy bars, 50¢. Popcorn, 25¢. Baseball concessions were where we made most of our money.

Engagement rings. People

our age were making plans to get married!

Most of us turned in our last Humanities paper (10 pages!) and took our last Humanities exam. We saw the half way point of our college education.

It was an enjoyable and fulfilling year. Praise God for our continued growth!

FRESHMEN

It is difficult to express a whole year in a few paragraphs, a year that has opened to us a whole new aspect of life and learning. We all have memories that we have made this year that will never be forgotten. They cover all emotions from joy to distress. These experiences have made us all more mature and better prepared for the years to come. We can never forget the feelings we had before our first humanities test, or the day we left for summer break knowing that some of our friends were graduating and wouldn't be back in the fall. Between the uncertainties of our first year there have been great times of happiness with new friends, friends who will always be near to us.

For me this year has gone so quickly. There has been so much activity. It has been my honor and privilege to serve as class president. The progress that we have made this year is not because of any one person, but rather a team of freshmen. As president I have gotten to work side by side with some of the best people I have ever met. The selection of these people as officers speaks well of the class. They were Dan Groner, Vice-President; Tina Thompson, Treasurer; Kelli Thompson, Secretary; Chris Crain and Jack Simpson, Male Representatives; and Alison Batts and Jennifer Linthicum, Female Representatives. They often went unnoticed, but are very deserving of our thanks.

In our futures here and beyond it will be with great feeling that we look back on this year. For all the freshmen in the class of 1992, I wish you the best of luck in all that you do.

PUTTING IT TOGETHER

Imagine that you are an avid baseball fan. You watch all the games, you keep the scores perfectly, you eat a lot of hot dogs. Then one day you find yourself behind home plate with a bat in your hands. If you make a hit, you are fine, but if you strike out you will never live it down. It sure was easier when you were just a spectator.

When the publications committee asked me to try out for the job of yearbook editor, I felt like I had been thrown on the ball field without even a bat. Sure, I had been on the staff for two years, but all I ever did was write articles and submit photos. It was always up to someone else to fit it all together.

After some discussion I decided to take them up on it. And so it came to pass that I spent my senior year learning the ways of layouts and copyfitting, points and picas, cropping and editing. And editing and editing and editing.

Now that it is all over and I am about to mail the last pages in to the publisher, I am glad I took the chance at being editor. I hope that this is a book that doesn't just sit around collecting dust, because memories don't always just happen . . . a lot of them have to be made, and several people put a great deal of time and effort into making the ones contained in these pages.

Many thanks to Mrs. Nitschke, who was a rookie right along with me and did a great job as advisor. Thanks also to everyone on the staff who stuck it out for the whole year, and to all the students who pitched in with articles and photos.

I think we have all hit a home run!

DEDICATION

... to a year of beginning

With the new communications program this year came Dr. Joseph M. Webb, a welcome addition to the Milligan faculty. Dr. Webb had his work cut out for him, but as the year wore on he proved himself equal to the task of getting the communications department off the ground.

Dr. Webb came to Milligan from Pepperdine University in Malibu, California, and more recently from Clark College in Atlanta.

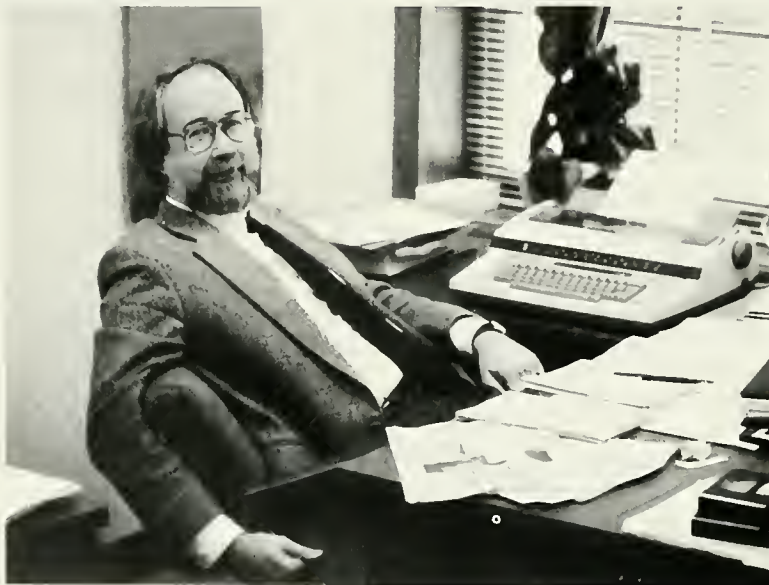

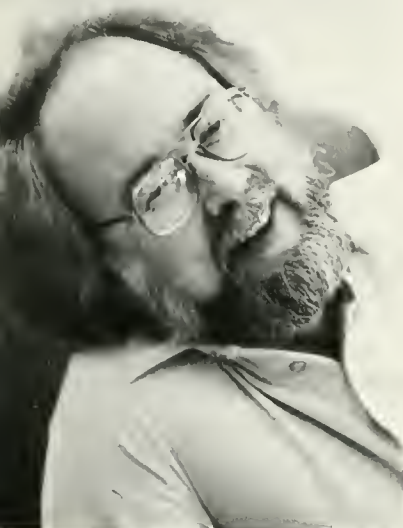

Although he and his wife made their home in Johnson City, Dr. Webb basically lived in the new Paxson Center on Campus. Once the building was ready for use in the spring semester, hardly a night passed without Dr. Webb teaching a class, producing a radio or television program, or just doing busy work in his office. He was a permanent and welcome fixture in the new facility, and rightly so considering the amount of time and effort he put into its existence.

To students who hooked into the communications program this year, Dr. Webb was both a professor and a friend.

He was genuinely interested in his students' lives and genuinely concerned for their well-being.

Dr. Webb has earned a great deal of respect among students and fellow professors in only one short year of service at Milligan. For an immense and unselfish contribution to the future of Milligan, it is to Dr. Joseph Webb that this book is gratefully and lovingly dedicated.

WIFE

"If we live, we live to the Lord; and if we die, we die to the Lord; so whether we live or die, we belong to the Lord." ROMANS 14:8

Many kinds of people are thrown together at college each year, and Milligan is no exception. It is the diversity of the student body that makes each school and each year unique.

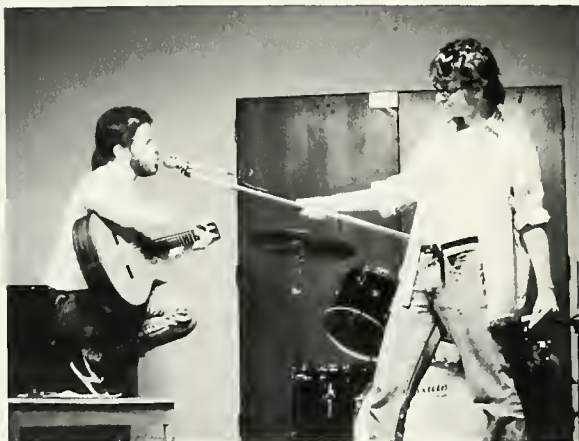

This year at Milligan, all kinds of students spent time living together — eating, sleeping, studying, playing, worshipping. And somewhere along the way we learned that all the papers, exams, and awards amount to nothing if we haven't also learned how to get along with our roommate.

At Milligan we have the unique privilege of sharing a faith that makes learning such lessons a bit easier. And as we look back at the friendships we have developed over the years, we find that the faith we share also makes the lessons learned a bit more rewarding.

Only the closest of friends can feed each other marshmallows!

Robin O'Neil and Katie Porter live it up on Terrific Tuesday.

Ian Sutherland has a song in his heart, and Randy "the Mike" Schanze is helping him sing it to the world.

Yonas has developed quite a following for his large snowy friends. Pictured are Mark Madden, Mary Beth Wilson, Nathan Huddleston, Lisa Gunther, Teresa Harrison, and Mark Kintigh.
