THE WORLD COURT AND EVOLUTION

GREAT GAME WON BY MILLIGAN TEAM IN THEIR FINAL CONTEST

Guilford College's highly touted team from the Old North State failed to live up to advance notices and Milligan College bucked and passed to an impressive 39-0 victory over the visitors in one of the prettiest played games of the season. Milligan's thin black line tore the Guilford forwards to shreds, opening up holes time after time for Milligan's backs to tear off yards.

The score does not indicate the terrific drive of the Buffaloes, for numerous penalties cost them at least two more touchdowns. While Milligan's offense swept the visitors aside, Milligan's defense was impregnable to Guilford's attack.

Milligan scored twice in the first half; the first score came in the first few minutes after Guilford's safety had fumbled Bullington's short drop-kick and Smallwood recovered on the 15-yard line. Successive bucks accounted for the score. Milligan failed to kick goal.

The next score came in the second quarter after a spectacular drive up the field. Milligan again failed to kick goal.

In the second half of the Buffaloes scored four touch-downs to make the score 39-0. The second team played the majority of the last quarter.

Capt. McCormick closed his college athletic career with his usual brilliant playing; although handicapped by an injured hand, his last game was probably the best of his career; his deadly tackling and great blocking aided greatly in Milligan's victory. McCormick was honored by being called upon to score the last touchdown. Hodges also wound up his college career in a blaze of glory; time after time he sifted the visitors' interference to get their runners for a loss, and not once was he encircled for a gain.

Smallwood, two years Varsity center, was clearly the outstanding star in the line; this good-natured lad from Kingsport has made his presence felt in every game this year. Waddell and

PHILOMATHEAN OPEN PROGRAM

The Philomathean Literary Society gave their annual open program in the College auditorium Monday evening, Nov. 30, at 7:30 o'clock. The following program was rendered:

Invocation—Bro. A. I. Myhr.

 The "Light"—Julia Kimmins, Director.

The Evolution of Dress—Kampus Karacters.
 Play—"When the Whirlwind Blows"—Dimple Hart, Director.

Cast of Characters: Mable Carpstarphen, Anne Coope, Sarah Blackburn.
 Gypsy Dance—Margaret Shelly, Josephine Johnson.

GIRLS' BASKETBALL TEAM

The outlook for the girls' basket ball team for the coming season is indeed bright. Many candidates have responded to the call and much valuable material is noticed. Wilma Moore has been elected manager for the year 1925-26, with Anne Warwick assistant manager.

Members of last year's team who returned this year are Watkins, star guard; Ora Light and Anne Warwick, both stellar forwards and Wilma Moore, center.

A good schedule is being arranged with the leading girls' teams of this section and we predict a most successful season under the leadership of Miss Frances Melton, physical director and coach for the girls.

Attempt To Organize New Athletic Council For All East Tennessee Colleges

At the present time the condition of intercollegiate athletics in East Tennessee is lamentable. The various schools of this section, which constitute the Old Appalachian Conference, are not on the friendliest terms, due to irregularities and the lack of a dominating force to keep the schools on an equal footing in regard to the control of athletics. East Tennessee teams are not meeting each other in sports as they should. This year, none of the stronger teams of this section are playing more than two games with local schools in football, but on the contrary are playing teams distant from this locality and as a consequence the interest in the games is not as keen as it should be. There are also many irregularities in the schools with regard to the control of athletics that should be properly dealt with.

In the face of all these conditions there comes a beacon light, out of the darkness. It is in the form of a proposed athletic conference with regulations that will serve to promote the finest class of athletics possible among East Tennessee and surrounding colleges. This conference which will be known as the Smoky Mountain Athletic Association, was formulated by Coach Lake F. Russell, of Carson-Newman College. It has for its purpose the studying of various phases of Collegiate Athletics, and the formation of rules and measures that will place the athletic activities of several colleges on an ethical plane.

All colleges will be benefited in various ways by this Conference should it be adopted by them. An increase of interest is the logical result when local teams meet in combat. In football, un-

Tennessee Christian student conference, which has been in session since Friday afternoon, closed yesterday, after going on record, in the form of resolutions, advocating that the United States accept the proposition of Senator Swanson, of Virginia, as to entrance into the world court, and declared the Tennessee anti-evolution law as injurious to the best interests of education and detrimental to religious growth and urged it be repealed.

The morning sessions, held in the University of Chattanooga chapel, were conducted by Dr. Bruce Curry, and Prof. J. B. Matthews. The earlier session was devoted to a final forum study under Dr. Curry on the types of radicals among youth movements and their place in the movement. The second problem considered was, "How radical shall we be in applying Christian principles to modern day life?"

Prof. Matthews, Scarritt College, Nashville, spoke on the theme: "Youth and the Idea of Universal Fellowship." He stressed that the ideal of unity in the world, or world brotherhood realized in various human contacts and relationships, is a captivating challenge to youth, and the only way to attain this ideal is for the youth of today to be prohuman. He described it as being an adventure with the spice of danger and the thrill of a new experience; that its very uncertainty is the thing that carries one to the attempt.

In the closing session in the afternoon at the First Presbyterian Church, the aims, purposes and achievements of the conference were summed up by L. S. Cottrell, Vanderbilt university, chairman of the business committee of the gathering. A short time was given for the students to express their views of the conference and some of the profound issues which have marked the daily meetings. More than twenty-five delegates arose to their feet, one after the other and gave expressions to the Hodges also wound up his college career in a blaze of glory; time after time he sifted the visitors' interference to get their runners for a loss, and not once was he encircled for a gain.

Smallwood, two years Varsity center, was clearly the outstanding star in the line; this good-natured lad from Kingsport has made his presence felt in every game this year. Waddell and Blisset were great on the defense and their offense was incomparable.

"Stumpy" Thomasson again carried the burden of Milligan's attack and ripped off gains at will against Guilford.

Fair and Bond played a good game at ends.

The entire team completely covered themselves with glory in this last game of the season.

MILLIGAN WALLOPS MARS HILL

Coach Tobe Edwards' Charging Buffaloes rushed down and stampeded the hefty Mars Hill team Wednesday, November 18, by the score of 20 to 0.

In the first half of the game the Buffalo team consisted only of second-string men and this team scored late in the first half when Barron, flashy back, slipped tackle for a touch-down.

Milligan came back strong in the second half and succeeded in pushing two more touch-downs across. Never once did the Mars Hill lads attempt to score and most of the game was played in the vicinity of their goal.

The outstanding feature of the game was the 80 yard return of a punt by "Stumpy" Thomasson who ran through the entire visiting team, with practically no interference whatever, for a touch-down.

The outstanding stars of the game for Milligan, were Bond, Sammonds, Meridith and Hodges in the line and Barron and Thomasson in the back-field.

COUNTY TEACHERS VISIT CHAPEL

Milligan College entertained the teachers of Carter County, in the college chapel, Friday morning. There was music by the orchestra and several speeches. Dean Boyd introduced Superintendent Banks and the Superintendent of the City Schools of Elizabethton, Mr. Ritchie, each of whom spoke briefly.

THANKSGIVING VISITORS

Dr. and Mrs. Melton, of Washington, D. C., and daughter, Miss Kinsey, were Thanksgiving guests of Coach Francis Melton. They were accompanied by Mrs. Hobbs and daughter, mother and sister of Miss Esther Hobbs.

Dr. Melton made a very interesting chapel speech on "Jesus the Healer of all our Wounds." Mrs. Melton followed her husband's talk with a corollary, that Jesus was the only physician that has never lost a case. Another very interesting and beautiful idea Mrs. Melton left was, when two people are speaking there are really six present; what each thinks of himself, what each thinks of the other fellow and what God knows each to be.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Goff Long and W. W. Hill, Jr., were at Milligan for the Thanksgiving holiday. Bill's knees actually knocked when he was called on for a speech. Mirabile dictu.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis Derthick, of Etowah, were pleasant visitors at this holiday season. They attended the King-Carson-Newman game at Bristol.

Pray for what you want, but don't wear out the creases of your breeches at it. If you don't get a quick answer rise up and go to work before you get too weak.

Ollie Morgan—"I don't look like myself at all in this new hat."

Julia Kimmons—"No, dear; I think you made a very wise selection."

Dean—"Coach, haven't you a tendency to let things slip?"

Coach—"Well, I play the slide-trombone."

East Tennessee and surrounding colleges. This conference which will be known as the Smoky Mountain Athletic Association, was formulated by Coach Lake F. Russell, of Carson-Newman College. It has for its purpose the studying of various phases of Collegiate Athletics, and the formation of rules and measures that will place the athletic activities of several colleges on an ethical plane.

All colleges will be benefited in various ways by this Conference should it be adopted by them. An increase of interest is the logical result when local teams meet in combat. In football, under the rules of the new association, each team must meet at least four other Conference teams each year, in order to get credit in the percentage column, which under the new proposed rules, decides the Conference championship each year. Similar demands are in effect in other sports of the schools.

This will mean a great financial saving to each of the association teams. Larger crowds will witness the games because of local interest and competition. The cost of transportation of the teams will also be greatly lessened. These considerations are not minor affairs among small schools and should meet their hearty approval.

One of the best features of the new association is that it will have at its head a Commissioner of Athletics. This commissioner will have about the same power in governing Conference athletics as a baseball commissioner has in regard to major league baseball. He is to be a person who is neither an alumnus, student, or employee of any school concerned. He passes on the eligibility of all players presented for participation upon any team of the Association. He makes decisions in case of disputes between association teams, and his decision is final in regard to the question. Concerning matters to be adjudicated by the commissioner, he may require statements or affidavits and the thrill of a new experience; that its very uncertainty is the thing that carries one to the attempt.

In the closing session in the afternoon at the First Presbyterian Church, the aims, purposes and achievements of the conference were summed up by L. S. Cottrell, Vanderbilt university, chairman of the business committee of the gathering. A short time was given for the students to express their views of the conference and some of the profound issues which have marked the daily meetings. More than twenty-five delegates arose to their feet, one after the other and gave expressions to the ideals for a new day in campus life and their willingness to embark on the adventure of this new way of living.

In closing, Dr. Willis J. King, Gammon Theological Seminary, Atlanta, spoke on the challenge to the way of the cross, and brought out the point that only as students are willing to pay the price in self-sacrifice and service to humanity would their adventure mean anything in their generation, and that their achievements would be measured by the amount of just such willingness.

The text of the group of resolutions adopted during the afternoon follows.

We the students attending the Tennessee Christian Student conference in Chatanooga, Nov. 27-29, 1925, propose the following resolutions:

Whereas, we have been so hospitably entertained by the citizens of Chattanooga; and,

Whereas, the local committee on reception and entertainment have very efficiently cared for our needs and,

Whereas, the University of Chattanooga has splendidly co-operated with us in promoting this conference; and,

Whereas, the First Presbyterian church, especially its pastor, Dr. Joseph G. Venable, and his assistant, Dr. Ansley C. Moore, have so graciously offered us the use of their building and its facilities; and,

WORLD COURT CONFERENCES

The past week has seen World Court Conferences all over the country going forward at a tremendous rate, with many conferences actually held, and preparations for the few remaining ones about completed.

The week-end of November 8th the Southern World Court Conference at Atlanta, which was the first in this section of the country to be held with colored and white students meeting together, was a notable achievement. There were three hundred delegates, of whom a little more than a hundred were colored, and practically all of the colleges in South Carolina, Georgia, Alabama and Florida were represented.

Last week-end (November 13 to 15) there were conferences held in New York City Oberlin, Ohio; Rochester, N. Y.; Pittsburgh, Pa.; Baltimore, Md.; Houston, Texas; Tacoma, Wash.; Nashville, Tenn.; and Winter Park, Fla. The Conference at Nashville was a one-day meeting for both colored and white students, and was held in a colored settlement under the leadership of Nevin Sayre.

The series of nation-wide conferences will be finished up during the next two weeks with meetings planned in Michigan, Louisiana, in Northern California, two in Southern California, a Greater Boston World Court Conference in Massachusetts, and a Connecticut Valley Student Conference on World Relations to be held at Amherst. The final important National Collegiate Conference at Princeton the week-end of December 12th, an entirely unplanned development coming from the students themselves, will be the climax of the special interest in the World Court on the part of students.

to be received was this wholly unsolicited estimate of the student conferences from Newton D. Baker, our former Secretary of War:

"I hope you will permit me to express my enthusiastic approval of the plan to have this series of student conferences on the World Court. The President is doing his full share and the pressure of public opinion alone can prevent the destruction of his generous policy by a group of irreconcilable senators. Public opinion is powerful when coordinated and led. The duty of leadership, it seems to me, belongs to the academic and religious groups of the country. We now have a chance to demonstrate a great and wholesome truth, viz., that the colleges of the country do count for wise and rational things and I hope the demonstration will be complete. These conferences will help to make it so."

SUCCESS OR FAILURE

Everyone is making one of two things, a success or a failure. Neither one is made in a day. A life time is generally required to make the finished product of either. It takes as long to make a failure as it does to make a success. When the curtain falls on our lives the world will silently and unconsciously brand them successes or failures. Eternity has only two doors. Over one door is written success, over the other is written failure. We must pass through one of these doors. The lamentable fact is that too many have passed through the door of Failure. The world does not desire men to fail. Neither does the world need any more failures. The world is already over-will see the hill and go over it and not around it; will see the work and strive to do it; will plod on when there's seemingly plenty of time; will keep trying when others say "It's no use." Follow these simple rules and at last you may be able to say:

"Rough and rugged has been the way,
Toilsome has been the road;
Long and lonely has been the day,
Heavy has been the load;
But victories and laurels are my crown,
Honors that price cannot buy;
Upward steps have been my pride
Success that shall not die."

INSIST ON BEING YOURSELF

Insist on being yourself; never imitate. Your own gift is the cumulative force of a whole life's cultivation; but the adopted talent of someone else, you have only for a while; it is only a half-possession because you have taken someone else's work and not your own. "Do that which is assigned you, and you cannot hope too much or dare too much." Accept the place providence has found for you and do not depend upon some one for your preparation in life, for no one can do that which is set out for you. Do not seek for anything outside of thyself. Help must come from the bosom alone. In self-trust all virtues are comprehended, and upon the self-radiant everything is depending he may become a leader in anything he undertakes. Self-distrust is the cause of most of our failures.

Egotism, so common in men of rank, may be a necessity. Nature gave man large hope lest he falter before reaching the high mark she sets for him. Self-confidence indicates reserve power.

In these busy days no one has time to hunt about in obscure corners for retiring merit. The world takes a man at his own estimate until he proves himself unworthy. The world admires courage, so let no one discourage self-reliance; it is of all things the greatest quality. Anyone must learn to stand upright upon his own feet, to be independent of anyone else. It is the only basis on which any structure of intellectual cultivation worth having can possibly be built. Self-trust is the cornerstone of all virtue.

ences will be finished up during the next two weeks with meetings planned in Michigan, Louisiana, in Northern California, two in Southern California, a Greater Boston World Court Conference in Massachusetts, and a Connecticut Valley Student Conference on World Relations to be held at Amherst. The final important National Collegiate Conference at Princeton the week-end of December 12th, an entirely unplanned development coming from the students themselves, will be the climax of the special interest in the World Court on the part of students.

Of the local developments, perhaps the most interesting one is the report that has just come from the New England region. In preparation for the two New England conferences, December 4-6, in Boston and Amherst, the New England World Court Committee is sending out special letters requesting each campus to make a full study of the reasons the vote on the national student poll turned out the way it did on that campus. A list of likely influences on the vote will be enclosed and each committee will be expected to canvass as many students as possible to find out which influences were the strongest in determining the vote.

One of the major reactions of students to this whole program is the fact that they refuse to agree lightly to America's entrance into the World Court, but are demanding a full statement on both sides of the question, which proves they are really thinking the matter to intelligent conclusions. This is shown in a letter that has reached headquarters from the Southern World Court Committee reporting that "students all over the South are asking for arguments against the World Court—or, I might say, both for and against"—and requesting to be supplied with questions on the World Court for Debates that would bring out the arguments pro and con. "They simply want some honest, keen opposition to cope with in order to come to real convictions."

Comment on all this World Court activity among students come from all corners of every state. One of the last make a failure as it does to make a success. When the curtain falls on our lives the world will silently and unconsciously brand them successes or failures. Eternity has only two doors. Over one door is written success, over the other is written failure. We must pass through one of these doors. The lamentable fact is that too many have passed through the door of Failure. The world does not desire men to fail. Neither does the world need any more failures. The world is already overstocked with them. What the world needs and must have is more successes and fewer failures.

There is no reason for men to fail. The majority of men have strong bodies and minds, keen foresight, and faculties capable of rendering true judgment. We live in a land with great possibilities and opportunities. The world is full of books, and current literature. The wide world presents thousands of opportunities for men to spend a useful life. We are all surrounded by human beings ready to give aid and sustenance to anyone who says "I will." Above all, God still lives and is anxious that men shall make successes rather than failures. There are reasons for making a success. The greatest reason why we should succeed is the greatness of the tasks before us. On every hand worthwhile tasks challenge the best that is in us. That is why we should make a success.

We read on the faded pages of history about great men in every field of human activity. We hear of great men about us every day and we passively sit and admire their successful careers and wish that we might be as fortunate as they. We may be if we will. But if we sit down with folded arms and pity ourselves and never generate any self-confidence and self-determination, we will never parade in the halls of success and fame. To make a success is to see life as an ever ascending pathway with many obstructions to bar the way; and with determination and grit say, "I will surmount the barriers and climb the steeps that lead to glory; upright upon his own feet, to be independent of anyone else. It is the only basis on which any structure of intellectual cultivation worth having can possibly be built. Self-trust is the cornerstone of all virtue.

from all parties having a knowledge of the facts. If a player refuses to make an affidavit when charges are preferred against him, the commissioner has the power and right to declare the player ineligible until he complies with the request. The benefit of an officer of this kind can be clearly seen. Eligibility rules can be properly enforced and disputes can be efficiently and finally settled. The eligibility rules are very stringent, but none too much so for the school's interest and the good name of athletics.

It is the purpose of the originator of the Association to discourage the "anything-to-win" spirit in athletics, and to promote a better brand of athletics in our East Tennessee and Appalachian schools.

Eligibility cards to check up on the players are submitted by each school to the commissioner of the association before the season opens for each sport. These schools and players are placed on their honor in regard to the eligibility of players and should any member of the association be reprehended for violating the rules of the conference it is subject to suspension or expulsion.

The schools that will constitute the new conference will be practically the same as that of the old Appalachian Association, namely: Maryville, King, Milligan, Carson-Newman, Emory and Henry, Lincoln Memorial University, Tusculum, and East Tennessee State Teachers' College. Concord State College also desires admission to the proposed conference, but this decision will rest with the members of the conference. East Tennessee State Teachers' College is now included in the list because it has been made a four-year college and can meet the same requirements as the other schools.

There is no reason why the interest in athletics among the Conference teams should not be greatly increased by the proposed Conference should it be adopted. The championship in various sports would be awarded on percentage basis. This would tend to increase the interest of the school, as well as of the constituency.

The proposed Conference will have about the same requirements as the Southern Conference, with the possible exception of the regulation against the playing of freshmen.—Johnson City Chronicle.

Resolved, That copies of this resolution be sent to the governor of Tennessee, the speaker of the house of representatives, the speaker of the senate and the Tennessee Academy of Science.

L. S. Cottrell, who has had charge of the business arrangements of the conference, was interviewed last night on his idea of racial relationships applied to the negro. He maintained that to be Christian the student must first of all be prohuman, and, where there is a difference made and all men are not regarded as brothers, then the person making it is unchristian and anti-human. He expressed the belief that all men should be regarded as brothers, and there should be no distinction of color, class or creed.

He explained that the present conference has been promoted as an experiment of an interracial gathering in the south. There were perhaps fifty negroes present, all of whom were deeply interested in the conference and its outcome. The negroes and white students all sat in the same pews; negroes appeared on programs and spoke in group meetings. In explaining this attitude of the present-day student, Mr. Cottrell said:

"The students who have promoted

EVANSTON STUDENT CONFERENCE

"The attitude of our more thoughtful students towards the Church is that they are impatient with the opposition of the Church to the teachings of science and with its clinging to theological beliefs as the essential thing in Christian Faith," writes one of America's outstanding teachers of Sociology in analyzing the student attitude on the campus of a mid-western University.

Continuing, he says, "The marked opposition to denominationalism shows itself here only in the belief that churches should bury their theological differences and unite upon the program of Jesus. I think that all believe in denominations as mere separate organizations or 'regiments' in the Christian army to promote one common cause. They do not believe in the antagonism of different denominations, and especially not in the attacks which the traditionally and theologically minded are directing against those of more liberal beliefs within the Christian Church, making it impossible for these latter to remain, or at least to work, in many denominations. In the South and West there is virtually a persecution of all of the more liberal elements in the Churches by the more orthodox elements."

"With the Church as divided and as medieval as it is, the more thoughtful students see little chance that the Church will be a means to the solution of such problems as war, social injustice, and intolerance, until it makes the program of Jesus the central thing in its efforts and teachings."

Whether the program of the present day Church can be so readjusted is the burning question which is drawing hundreds of students toward Evanston, Illinois, for the Interdenominational Student Conference, December 29th to January 2nd, 1925-26.

Within four days after the first announcements of the Conference were sent out, the Executive Committee at 10 East Huron Street, Chicago, received requests from over 200 students for registration cards. These cards came from students of 26 different states and 97 different colleges, including some of the greatest Universities of the East and West, such as Harvard, Dartmouth, Amherst, Cornell, Ohio State, Carleton, Illinois, and California. Since that time the number has been increasing steadily.

WOULD REPEAL LAW ON EVOLUTION

the experiment of an interracial conference in the south have done so realizing the dangers and difficulties involved. They have done so with the conviction that the problem of the relationship among the races of the world is increasingly becoming a crucial one, and that the only constructive way of approach to adjusting racial relationships is through the process of sympathetic and friendly understanding.

"They further realize that since college students are to be in a large measure the leaders of a rising generation it is absolutely necessary that these potential leaders of both the white and negro races in the south should begin while in the process of training to understand the viewpoint, attitudes and problems of each other. Not only that, but the problem of racial relationships will be satisfactorily solved only as both races begin to realize the fact that they are living in the same world and that they must together solve the problems involved in the common task of building a civilization. The students are distinctly of the opinion that an attempt to find a Christian basis of relationship between the races does not involve intermarriage, but that we are students together, searching for justice and good-will and fairness between peoples.

"These students feel that to be absolutely Christian we must be prohuman and regard every man as a brother, regardless of any color, class or creed."

The schools represented at the conference were Vanderbilt, University of Tennessee, University of Chattanooga, Tusculum, Tennessee Wesleyan, Tennessee Polytechnical Institute, Tennessee Industrial, Southern Y. M. C. A. college, Scarritt, Peabody, Milligan, Fiske University, Morristown Normal, Swift Memorial, State Normal, Roger Williams, Lane, Knoxville college, Middle Tennessee Teachers' college, Maryville, Martin, Hiwassee, East Tennessee Teachers' college, Cumberland Centenary, Carson-Newman, Baylor, Atlanta schools and colleges, Baptist Training school and Southern Baptist seminary.—The Chattanooga Times.

We know a freshman that was so dumb when he arrived at college that he thought—

A mushroom was a parlor; a shack-horn a musical instrument; a diplomat was a kind of rug; that Sing Sing was a voice culture studio; and also that July the Fourth was a king of England.—Blue and Gold, K. C.

A boy, going from the farm to college, wrote a letter home to his brother, who stuck to the farm, saying:

"We autoed out to the Country Club Thursday where we golfed until dark. Then we motored to the beach for the week end." The brother on the farm wrote back: "Yesterday we buggied to town and baseballed all afternoon. Today we muled out to the cornfield and gee-hawed until sun down. After we had suppered, we piped awhile. After that we staircased up to our room and bedstedded until the clock fived."

In the varicolored hues of society conduct and administration, there in gold and silver threads of wisdom, unassumingly, is woven our slogan, our aim, our all in all.—Non quantus sed qualis.

And thus it is that we pray "O build me well O Mighty Master," for it is always true that "God helps those that help themselves." And in accordance with the immortal words of Tennyson, "Men rise on stepping stones of their dead selves to higher things," we try to make each program a stepping stone and not a stumbling block to Excelsior.

As guides of the Athenian Literary Society for the next two months the following were elected and are now serving the society:

Grady Adkisson _____ President
 Bernal Lappin _____ Vice-President
 Dayton Hodges _____ Sec'y and Treas.
 Glen Rankin _____ Chaplain
 Lawrence Derthick _____ Critic
 John Broadway _____ Censor

The offices of Chairman of the Program Committee and Society Reporter were given by appointment to Willard Dorsey and Woody Werking respectively.
